

TERRENCE A. CHANCE JR.

In the Workplace

Terrence works for The Boeing Company as their Weapon Systems Chief Financial Officer. He has a real "passion for people", and loves that in his current role he is able to work on "employee development and solving complex issues" all while "integrating finance into technical and project management."

At Home

His immediate family are all natives of Guyana, making Terrence the 1st generation American born citizen in his branch of the family tree! In his free time, Terrence loves to golf, spend time with family and friends, and volunteer in his community.

With CHMO

Terrence started out as a dedicated volunteer, working with out youth on job readiness and interview skills. He was asked to join our Board, which he gladly accepted as he sees it as a "great opportunity to provide monetary and non-monetary resources to a local non-profit organization." He is also happy to have the chance to expand his network by getting to know our other board members.
